Our society is at a crossroads, as many people are waking up to the reality that racial & social injustice is a perennial problem in America that we must confront and redress. As the first law school in the nation — a school with a longstanding commitment to developing engaged advocates for justice — we feel a deep sense of responsibility to speak to this moment. Below are the principal initiatives we will pursue to ensure that William & Mary Law School is part of the solution.

Center for Racial & Social Justice
Creating a center focused on racial & social justice issues that will engage in research and other activities that advance equity & justice in our society.

Community Law Clinic
Launching a clinic that serves the most vulnerable members of our community and gives students experience that prepares them to advocate for the advancement of social justice.

Support for First-Generation & Underrepresented Students
Supporting first-generation students and students from underrepresented backgrounds by instituting pipeline programs and a new on-campus support group.

Public Interest & Social Justice Concentration
Creating an academic concentration in Public Interest & Social Justice Law so that students can focus their studies on preparing for their calling as public interest advocates.

Equity & Need-Based Scholarships
Providing scholarships and public interest fellowships for students dedicated to becoming advocates for equity and justice. Need-based scholarships will be provided as well.

Academic Success Position
Creating a new Director of Academic & Bar Success position who will develop programming to support all students, regardless of background, in their efforts to succeed in law school and on the bar exam.

Criminal Justice Reform Lecture
Inaugurating an annual lecture series featuring impactful speakers focused on police reform, corrections reform, and other topics pertaining to improving equity and fairness in our criminal justice system.

Inclusive Working & Learning Environment
Making the law school a more inclusive environment in which to work by enhancing respect for the contributions of all those who work on behalf of the school, including staff, administrators, and faculty, and by expanding exposure to equity & inclusion issues.

Inclusive Spaces
Making existing portraiture at the law school more inclusive so that it reflects the contributions of the full spectrum of people in our society.

Student Fund for Inclusive Excellence
Increasing financial support for a Student Fund for Inclusive Excellence, which will fund student-organization initiatives that bear on issues of equity, inclusion & social justice, from all perspectives.

Inclusive Hiring
Reiterating our commitment to inclusive hiring. True excellence in hiring mandates an inclusive search process that seeks excellence among people from all backgrounds. The law school and those who recruit here must meaningfully commit to that, and we will.

Making the law school a more inclusive environment in which to work by enhancing respect for the contributions of all those who work on behalf of the school, including staff, administrators, and faculty, and by expanding exposure to equity & inclusion issues.

Supporting first-generation students and students from underrepresented backgrounds by instituting pipeline programs and a new on-campus support group.

Creating an academic concentration in Public Interest & Social Justice Law so that students can focus their studies on preparing for their calling as public interest advocates.

Providing scholarships and public interest fellowships for students dedicated to becoming advocates for equity and justice. Need-based scholarships will be provided as well.

Inaugurating an annual lecture series featuring impactful speakers focused on police reform, corrections reform, and other topics pertaining to improving equity and fairness in our criminal justice system.

Increasing financial support for a Student Fund for Inclusive Excellence, which will fund student-organization initiatives that bear on issues of equity, inclusion & social justice, from all perspectives.