Georgia Asylum and Immigration Network
Atlanta, Georgia

Brianna Bennett [2L] will conduct research on immigration and asylum laws as they relate to domestic violence applications. She will draft motions and memoranda and participate in client interviews, working closely with defense attorneys and providing support to non-profit organizations that focus on delivering aid to refugees, victims of human trafficking, and asylum seekers.

Pinkcollar Employment Agency
Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia

Ashali Chimata [1L] will contribute to Pinkcollar's efforts to improve conditions for the migrant domestic worker sector in Malaysia, ensuring ethical hiring free of labor trafficking. She will also assist in placing members of indigenous communities in appropriate employment.

Supreme Judicial Commission of the Central Tibetan Authority
Dharamsala, India

Danielle Musselman [2L] will assist the Supreme Judicial Commission of the Central Tibetan Authority with the finalization of its first Evidence Code. The Code will be used during all hearings and matters before Local and Circuit Commissions, as well as the Supreme Justice Commission when it resolves interpretations of the Charter of the Tibetan Community in Exile.
Steven Amendola (2L) will research constitutional and electoral issues and analyze ongoing democratization efforts in Indonesia.

International Foundation for Electoral Systems
Global Programs

Ruth Jones (1L) and Ellie Halfacre (1L) will contribute to research and programming efforts that support electoral justice, legal and regulatory frameworks for elections and governance in new and emerging democracies.

Open Development Cambodia and Open Development Mekong

Phnom Penh, Cambodia and Yangon, Myanmar

Jeff Baek (1L) will support transparent data sharing on economic development in countries surrounding the Mekong River. His work will identify priority sectors in foreign investment, competing interests, geopolitical drivers, and bilateral trade agreements that impact development of Cambodian society.
Winrock Countering Trafficking Project
Kingston, Jamaica

Rebecca White [1L] will work with Jamaican NGOs to eliminate child trafficking, including commercial sexual exploitation and hazardous forced labor. She will help develop human trafficking screening tools and identify areas of needed improvement in the protection of vulnerable children and those who care for them.

Department of Commerce, Office of the Chief Counsel for International Commerce
Washington, D.C.

Susan Gao [2L] will provide legal support to the International Trade Administration, part of the Department of Commerce. Her work will focus on cutting-edge legal issues related to electronic commerce, digital trade and privacy, anti-corruption, foreign investment, trade facilitation, government procurement, and international standards.

United States Agency for International Development Office of General Counsel
Washington, D.C.

Lyndsey Martin [2L] will work with the USAID Office of the General Counsel, which provides legal advice and guidance for the agency's global operations.
Centre for the Study of Violence and Reconciliation
Cape Town, South Africa

Jayde Morgan [1L] will conduct research at individual, community, national, and international levels on conflict-based violence, focusing on individual African countries and Africa as a region. Her work will center on truth commissions, conflict-based sexual violence, and transitional justice.

United States Institute of Peace
Washington, DC

Maheen Nadeem [1L] will be working with the Justice and Security Dialogue team to contribute to peace-building and conflict resolution efforts in West Africa. USIP works closely with local communities in order to foster stability and strengthen the Rule of Law.

International Institute for Democracy and Electoral Assistance/Constitution Building Processes Programme
The Hague, Netherlands

Nancy Rosen [1L] will conduct comparative research of constitutional transitions in post-conflict countries, analyzing processes and designs of constitutions, with a focus on national contexts.
International Bridges to Justice
Geneva, Switzerland
Claire Gardner [2L] will work to promote systemic global change in the administration of justice. Her work will help to guarantee individuals the right to competent legal representation in countries where pretrial detention and torture are abused.

AdvocAid
Freetown, Sierra Leone
Michael Davis [1L] will be assisting with efforts to provide legal assistance and support to women and girls caught up in a legal system that is often unjust and is further impacted by poverty. The combination of poverty and limited education often results in women admitting to crimes they did not commit.

National Center for State Courts International Programs Division
Arlington, Virginia
Canaan Sutt [2L] will support efforts to expand and improve the quality of justice through technical assistance, training, and technology. His work will include collaborating with government institutions, civil society actors, educators, researchers, and development partners around the world.
Center for Legal Aid and Regional Development
Pristina, Kosovo
Valerie Brankovic will work to provide free legal assistance and counseling to refugees, migrants, and other vulnerable groups. She will also support public campaigns and vocational workshops aimed at improving access to justice and labor market participation for marginalized populations in Kosovo.

International Bridges to Justice
Kigali, Rwanda
Kayla Worrall will work to promote individual rights in Rwanda by assisting in filling gaps in the country's legal aid system and working to create a culture where political leaders and citizens understand and support due process rights.

Open Development Cambodia
Phnom Penh, Cambodia
Hannah Robertson will conduct legal research to promote ODC's mission of open, transparent, and apolitical information sharing. Her work will focus on foreign direct investment in the oil and gas industry in Cambodia, highlighting social corporate responsibility, environmental impact, and economic development.
Central and Eastern European Law Initiative Institute
Prague, Czech Republic
Maggie Utech [1L] will assist in developing training materials for an international network of legal and judicial professionals working to implement more just processes in their home countries. CEELI is committed to advancing the Rule of Law through communication operations, programming, and research.

Cultural Heritage Partners
Richmond, Virginia
Clara Davis [1L] will assist in providing advice and legal services relating to cultural heritage law. She will participate in a variety of practice areas including heritage preservation, art and antiquities, indigenous heritage, and environmental, social, and governance matters.

Democracy for Development
Pristina, Kosovo
Charlie King [1L] will contribute to D4D’s mission of advancing socio-economic development, improving governance, and promoting democratic values and institutions in Kosovo. D4D is committed to developing an engaged and informed citizenry that can utilize the public arena and decision-making process to achieve efficient and equitable outcomes.
Beijing Children's Legal Aid and Research Center
Beijing, China

Mariia Safronova [1L] will conduct comparative research in Chinese and foreign legal systems on issues concerning the protection of children's rights. The Beijing Children's Legal Aid and Research Center is the largest public interest legal service organization in China and China's first NGO to specialize in children's rights.

Winrock Countering Trafficking of Persons Project
Dhaka, Bangladesh

Matthew McConnell [1L] will work to reduce the prevalence of human trafficking and child marriage in Bangladesh by elevating public awareness, improving victims' access to assistance, and partnering with local leaders to aid in the prosecution of traffickers.

International Bridges to Justice
Cambodia, Myanmar, and Indonesia

Olivia Robertson [1L] will contribute to efforts in Cambodia, Myanmar, and Indonesia to ensure that criminal defendants receive competent defense, protection from cruel and unusual punishment, and fair trials by researching legal issues that will be accessible to lawyers around the world via an app.
Initiative for Strategic Litigation in Africa
Johannesburg, South Africa
Rebecca Roberts [1L] will assist in advancing women’s human and sexual rights through research and strategic litigation of cases. She will work with domestic courts in South Africa, international courts across the African continent, and UN treaty bodies to challenge legal discourses on women’s rights and sexual rights.

American Bar Association Rule of Law Initiative
East Asia Bureau
Anna Scott [1L] will be working with the Rule of Law Initiative to focus their Vietnam portfolio, researching topics such as money laundering, big data, and the availability of legal resources to human trafficking victims.

USAID Strengthen Civil Society to Improve Development Outcomes Program
Kampala, Uganda
Ryan Myers [1L] will work to strengthen Uganda’s civil society organizations, thereby improving development efforts. He will contribute to the program’s four thematic areas: health, education, agriculture, and democracy.